FOREWORD BY Joel Osteen

We all have felt limited by something in life. It might be a negative mindset, a feeling of guilt, an addiction, a poor self-image, or anger and resentment toward someone who did us wrong. These negative thoughts, feelings, and situations are not only unhealthy but they affect how we live our lives. They can cause us to behave in such a way as to impair our relationships, our families, our careers, and our dreams. If this is you and you long for a change in your life, then this book will help you to take hold of the blessings that belong to you and to move into the future that awaits you.

First off, let me encourage you that God has a purpose and a plan for your life. He has preordained you to achieve great things and to fulfill your destiny, and He has equipped you with everything you need to overcome each and every hindrance that tries to keep you from it. His greatest desire is to have a personal relationship with you, and He is moved with compassion to heal and restore every wounded area in your life. You are God's masterpiece and He created you to live life free, happy, and healthy.

Consider these things as you read this book and allow Him to renew your mind. God says that you are more than a conqueror and can do all things through Jesus Christ who strengthens you. But first, you must believe that He can meet every need, heal every hurt and overcome every obstacle that holds you down.

My father, John Osteen, was a great minister who not only founded Lakewood Church but led it for nearly forty years. Everyone loved and respected my dad and he was a pillar in the faith community. After he went to be with the Lord, I felt that God asked me to step up and pastor Lakewood Church, but, I didn't know if I could do it. My first thoughts were that I didn't have the right training or experience and there was no way I could preach like my dad. I didn't know if people would stop coming to the church or watching on TV. My hope was that, at best, I could just maintain the church at its current level. But, God had a greater plan for me than I could have ever thought, hoped or imagined. I had to do what I am encouraging you to do: be the best that I could be and rely on God to equip me to fulfill the destiny that was in front of me. I've learned that when we feel inadequate, if we believe that God will not fail us and we strive to follow His plan, He will give us the power and ability to overcome the challenges we face. It is only then that we will be able to step into the destiny He has planned for us.

Don't allow that one thought to hold you captive. Don't allow shame, guilt, fear or condemnation to keep you from your God-given destiny. Where you go, what you do, and how you spend your time will either take you away from your destiny or propel you toward it. Don't hang around people who will pull you down to their level, but find friends who will lift you up and encourage you in the things of God. Remember this thought: Jesus bore the penalty for your sins when He hung on the cross, so that you could obtain His forgiveness and receive the Spirit of God on the inside of you.

When you receive God's Spirit, you're transformed. Once this happens you will see yourself as a citizen of Heaven and a child of God. You will begin to win the battles that take place in your mind, and you'll learn to take captive the negative thoughts that say you will never reach your destiny, God could never use you because you have made too many mistakes, or that you don't have what it takes. You will replace them with thoughts of victory and worth.

I have known Renée Branson for more than 36 years. She is an ordained minister on our staff, and a great teacher of God's Word. Her book is a teaching manual to help you navigate the roadblocks the enemy tries to put in your pathway to keep you from reaching your full potential in life. He will tempt you to feel defeated, worthless and useless. But the enemy is a liar. You are a child of the Most High God and He has formed and fashioned you to be great in His kingdom. He will help you conquer every foe, win every battle, and fulfill His plan and purpose for your life. I urge you to read Renée's book carefully and to pay special attention to the end of each chapter where she shares questions to challenge you. I urge you to allow it to inspire you to become all God has created you to be.
